

Prescription Painkillers by State

More than 215 million prescriptions for painkillers such as Vicodin, Percocet and OxyContin were filled in the U.S. last year, a number that has declined slightly in the last five years. But Americans are still consuming three times as many painkillers as they consumed in 1999, and the rate of use varies widely among states.

■ Opioid prescriptions per capita, 2016

Source: Xponent and QuintilesIMS.

© 2017 The Pew Charitable Trusts